2005 Enniss Lecture: Faithful Leadership in a Changing Context

What does it mean to say we are brothers and sisters in Christ? How do Christians come together in community while still honoring cultural differences? Please join us we examine these complex questions and many others during the 2005 Enniss Lecture:

Faith and Courage: Called to be Brothers and Sisters in Christ

October 15-16

9 a.m. – 2 p.m.

Trinity Presbyterian Church

Atlanta, Georgia

Keynote speaker Rodger Nishioka, associate professor of Christian Education at Columbia Theological Seminary, will lead a series of discussions about what it means for Christians to be multicultural in a pluralistic world and how we can build congregations that address the multiple challenges of racism, sexism and classism that keep us from living out God's call to live in peace with one another.

This year's Saturday lecture will be in an interactive workshop format with two main sessions, followed by time for small-group tabletop discussions and a closing forum to share thoughts and findings. A separate track for young people will be provided during the morning session, with all participants coming together for the second discussion.

Lunch will be available during the midday break for $6 per person. Child care for children 5 and under will be available on site, and parents should bring a bag lunch to leave with their child.

On Sunday, Rodger Nishioka will lead a joint church school class for youth and adults at 9:45 a.m. prior to regular Sunday worship at 11.

For more information or to make a lunch reservation, please call Trinity Presbyterian Church at 404.237.6491 or e-mail veronr@trinityatlanta.org. Please make lunch reservations by Friday, October 7.

In the spring of 2000, Central Presbyterian Church launched the P.C. and Jane Enniss Lecture Series to honor P.C. "Buddy" Enniss, Central's second longest-serving pastor, now theologian-in-residence at Trinity Presbyterian Church, and his wife, Jane. The series honors Buddy and Jane for their service to the community and the church with an annual educational and worship event that focuses on major theological issues. In 2003, Trinity joined Central in its continuing sponsorship and support of the Enniss Lectures.
